The human body knows every statute of man's law.

As I contemplated how I could prove that fact-checking on a lie-detector machine is effective for gaining unknown factual information and bring this discovery out to responsible ethical social authorities, I thought to myself, "There has to be some way I can prove this. There has to be some scientifically based method to demonstrate this." In September 2016, the idea occurred to me that I could demonstrate the technology of fact-checking with muscle-testing on a lie-detector machine with letters and numbers, showing that the human body has the ability to gain the password to an email account this way. My idea was to make a videotape of a fresh password of combined letters and numbers from a password generator website, while a person on a lie-detector machine uses educated guesses and process of elimination to gain the password, thereby demonstrating that the human body has access to all the facts of creation. I instead chose to write letters to civil rights organizations and legislators for over a year until I finally was confronted with enough evidence that the policy-makers in the U.S. government, the press, and the non-profit sector were too corrupt to do right by this power.

In 2017 I attempted to explain the existence of this fact-checking technology to another person, and as I talked, I came up with many examples of how the human body knows everything on this plane of existence, because it is the physical body's job to know the facts of existence, in order to navigate through time and space, the human body must know its surroundings. I gave the example of the human body knows the page number of any book you randomly flip open to. As a scientific experiment, I recommended that a person flip any book open and place a bookmark without looking at the page number, then get on the lie-detector and guess the page number until they have found it. I kind of have a way of pulling things out of my deep pockets of consciousness without any preparation or thinking ahead, and this is where these examples brought forward in conversation came from.

On July 12, 2003 a human trafficker discovered that the human body knows every statute of man's law. He was the first human being to realize this since the Dawn of Time. I was the second human being to make this discovery since the Dawn of Time.

The idea that the human body knows every statute of man's law did not occur to me right away. I was still struggling against the emotional burden of, "no one will believe you," and my mind was making things more complicated than they needed to be.

In the summer of 2017, I had a beautiful epiphany. It just popped into my awareness that the human body's knowledge of the statutes of man's law were not one-dimensional, such as knowing all the words in a book, but that the human body has access to all the facts of creation, including the collective interpretation of mass agreements on the nature of our shared reality, and this means the human body knows when a statute of man's law has been broken. It was on July 2, 2017 that I realized that the human body knows every statute of the law. It was a big deal for me to find relief in the clarity. I published this discovery on the Ling School website the same day. I later muscle-tested that until this century, the 1700's were the last time in human history that muscle-testing was used to determine if a tribal law had been broken.

The language used in dialogue with the human body is the key to unlocking access to gaining accurate information through muscle-testing on a lie-detector. The human body is very specific about the accuracy of words to communicate truth. The human body is matter of fact and if the incorrect vocabulary is used in a muscle-testing inquiry, the no answers will reflect this. I spent over 300 hours in 2018 muscle-testing to develop the correct use of lie-detector language through trial and error, using my spiritual knowledge base as a shaman to navigate the mysteries of the realm of knowledge the body has that the mind does not. My work was stolen from me through unwarranted surveillance by the NSA, FBI, and CIA and compiled into a book they named The Book of Codes; my work was attributed to 18 authors who were not even real people.

After I finish publishing this book, I will be hard at work writing my own copy of The Book of Codes to make available to the public for an affordable price. In the meantime, you can use Decency Code 2.4 to muscle-test yes or no if it has been violated upon you by any specific person; a time frame was built in; however, consider that you may have violated Decency Code 2.4 on many people simply by reading the newspaper or watching the news on television. The newspaper business has an issue with plagiarism. The press has exploited their position as being legally exempt from the crime of theft of domestic government property. However, laws against domestic terrorism continue to apply to the press; surveillance abuse is terrorism.

If you have a sex life, no matter what you look like, even if you don't consider yourself good looking, chances are the best sex you have had has been recorded through unwarranted surveillance and sold on the black market. The reason for this is to control the masses through inducing widespread trauma that is injurious on a deeply personal level. If you think that the CIA participating in human trafficking and international terrorism does not pose a safety threat and health risk for every person in this country, you are under the influence of a trauma-based mind control program that says, "Not my problem, not my responsibility."

People sick with pedophilia marry each other and raise children that they sexually abuse or allow to be sexually abused by others, and this group of people deliberately increases the population of pedophiles this way. Pedophiles make children that they look at and say, "You are going to grow up to be just like me." The common notion that pedophiles are sexually repressed people who hide from the public is not true; every single adult who has spoken a word broadcasted on national television in the United States in 2018 currently has Pedophilic Disorder. The pedophiles have a huge emotional support group, thousands of people they can turn to that understand and accept them.

What is the solution? The solution is to create healthy drumbeats on an attainable level that grow to become larger. Begin with creating community, a group to meet with and to support each other in your respective goals that cannot be infiltrated by violent sex offenders to compromise the drumbeat through abuse of trust. Continue to remain friends with serial rapists if that feels right to you, but don't expect them to restrain themselves from raping you just because you are friends. About half this nation is in love with rape; it is going to take some major work to organize a new political party and build anti-rape communities. Whatever you do, don't wait around for someone else to do it for you. YOU ARE THE PROPER AUTHORITIES! You can run for political office, start an anti-rape newspaper or radio show, or organize a non-profit to attend to the service gap. Non-violent action is the best medicine.
